FULL DESCRIPTION OF TRAINING CONTENTS

Preparation In preparation for the training participants will be asked to fill in a questionnaire in order to provide us with the following information:

- personal data;
- professional experience;
- specific interests in the field;
- examples of adult learning in their country.

Prerequisite: knowledge of basic English.

Each participant will be asked to bring a work of art or writing (drawing, painting, self-description, self-interview etc.) in order to introduce himself/herself.

Objectives The course aims to enhance skills in adult education and to promote awareness of personal needs and ways of attaining wellbeing.

The specific training objectives are:

- To present methods and techniques for wellbeing in adult education;
- To provide knowledge and skills in the uses of art in adult education;
- To explore personal emotions in relationships with clients;
- To gain new insights and experience in working with adults, in particular parents, disadvantaged people (psychiatric patients, drug addicts, persons with disabilities); teachers of adult courses (professionals, leaders in the area of entertainment and sport); caregivers; occupational and rehabilitation therapists; teachers of baby-sitters, child-minders, carers of elderly and infirm persons; trainers, teachers, educational counselors.

At the end of the course participants will be able to:

- In the personal-emotional sphere:

- a) Recognise their own emotional reactions;
- b) Activate coping strategies;
- c) Improve their self-esteem.

- In the sphere of relationships:

- a) Enter into contact with the emotional reactions of others;
- b) Recognise their own ways of establishing relations and enhance their ability to create relationships based on reciprocal wellbeing.

- In the professional sphere:

- a) Have a knowledge of the main theories, techniques and methods for wellbeing in adult education;
- b) Improve their skills and artistic abilities for working with adults.

Methodology The course will develop using a combination of different approaches: presentations by social professionals (university teachers, psychologists, psychotherapists); workshops; working groups; groups in which trainers will share their own professional experiences; role-play; direct experience of techniques. Finally, participants will be given documents, files of information and bibliographies to stimulate further reflection. The course is above all designed to be interactive, based on inclusion and exchange of information among participants. Traditional “frontal” teaching has not been planned, but rather plenary sessions, small working groups, brainstorming sessions and debates, presentations and simulations.

Follow-up Actions planned:

- We will ask participants to complete a questionnaire for an internal evaluation of the course in order to compare initial expectations (hopes realized, organization of the course, the course programme, contents proposed) with final results.
- A mailing list of the participants will be set up in order to create a network and facilitate contacts and exchanges of information among them and the tutors.

- After 6 months we will send them a test in order to evaluate the benefits of the course on their personal and professional wellbeing and skills developed.
